GrowLearnPlay.com - Small Beginnings, BIG Discoveries!

Newnan, Georgia – [October 16, 2007] – <http://www.growlearnplay.com/> is a new online toy store geared towards developmental and educational toys for infants, toddlers and preschoolers. Small beginnings lead to huge discoveries with toys that will educate children everywhere!

As children grow playing and learning is an integral part of a child's developmental pattern. However, children do not know that they are in fact learning. Naturally they are just going about their fun-filled days playing as much as possible. Growlearnplay.com emphasizes on this "learning and development" by offering toys that will open up a child's creative abilities along with educational toys to help them learn more, and develop faster than the average "toys" being sold in today's marketplace would. If you must purchase toys for your children, and we all do, then this is the place to purchase them insuring that your children will gain not just fun, but also educational and developmental growth.

While toy stores are abundant in most cities and states, there are very few toy stores found that are solely dedicated to the growth and development of children. "Play is an integral part of a child's learning and development. We strive to carry quality toys that challenge creativity and imagination. As a parent myself, I believe that toy shopping for your child should be one of the most enjoyable of shopping experiences. Our toys will not only provide your child with stimulating fun, but will also encourage family time playing together and create lasting memories of this special stage of your child's development." <http://www.growlearnplay.com/> is now available online and even includes an affiliate program to join for free, as well as free shipping on orders purchased over $175.00.
